BATH LUXURY STAYS ARE AIRREADY

A beautiful Bath mansion, managed by AIRREADY, has been selected for Airbnb global Heritage competition

A stunning Bath house has been chosen as the UK star attraction in a global competition offered by the property giant Airbnb. The winner and chosen companions will travel 19 days through idyllic countryside by rail and stay three nights in each of Airbnb's selected five magnificent historic homes: an English mansion, a French château, a Catalan manor, a German castle and an Italian villa.

Sophie Alcock, director of Airready, who manage the chosen Bath property says, "We are delighted that one of our glorious Bath properties has been chosen as part of this fantastic campaign. To have Bath recognised as the Heritage Tour destination in the UK by Airbnb, is testament to how popular our city has remained over hundreds of years to discerning travellers. To have a house from the Airready portfolio chosen is a privilege and it has been very rewarding to deliver this campaign in partnership with Airbnb. We are enormously grateful to the owners of this great house to offer it for this competition."

Airready are a local Bath company, who manage a portfolio of over 50, luxurious and unique Airbnbs in the city of Bath and surrounding villages. Co-owner Paul Ralph who heads up the company logistics explains how attention to detail is key to delivering a truly five-star experience to guests on every property, every time.

He says, "Airready ensures that the details are never missed – plants are watered, lightbulbs are changed, everything is triple checked. We put in luxury hotel-standard linen with fluffy towels for our guests and offer a genuine 24/7 point of contact. A lot of hard work takes place behind the scenes by our wonderful team – but it is all immensely satisfying when we get the guest feedback."

Rebecca Kemp, co-owner of Airready says, "The quality of Airbnbs has increased significantly over the last decade, and so have guest expectations. A luxury hotel experience is now just a condition of entry into this highly competitive sector. We make sure that each and every experience is five star and the houses we are privileged enough to manage are kept in impeccable order. We are lucky enough to look after some extraordinary homes and our guests' reviews and repeat visits are testament to the quality of the houses and the experiences we deliver."

If you wish to find out more about how Airready could help you look after your luxury holiday home then please do call Rebecca on 07906 507228; we would be delighted to talk to you. ■
